

School Board Considering 5 Sites For New School

Sparse Crowd Out For Monday Meeting To Hear Planning

At a public meeting Monday night, the Morgan County Board of Education announced it is considering five sites for possible location of a proposed $2 million, ultra-modern high school to replace the county's present two high schools.

The meeting at the Morgan High gymnasium was planned originally as a progress report to bring the county's citizens up to date on the board's overall planning. However, the meeting drew only a sparse crowd and discussion centered mainly on the possible building sites.

The sites—three near Index, and two east of West Liberty on or near US-460—were discussed at length by an engineer for Donald B. Shelton and Associates of Lexington, the architectural firm employed to design the new facility.

The sites being considered and engineers' estimates of the approximate total cost of each were announced as follows—

✓ A 30-acre site owned by Herman Howard, located east of West Liberty upriver from the ox-bow lake known locally as "The Pond." Purchase price $30,000. Estimated additional costs: access road $32,000; road lighting $14,500; grading site $13,500; construction of a water system $8,000; construction of sewage disposal system $36,500. Total $134,000.

✓ A 30-acre site owned by Sam Carter, located on the eastern outskirts of West Liberty near the West Liberty Drive-In Theatre. Purchase price $35,000. Estimated additional costs: access road $8,000; road lighting $6,000; grading site $35,000; no independent water supply system needed since site is near West Liberty's municipal water system; pumping station to connect with municipal sewage system $15,000; $24,500 for sinking building foundation through landfill to insure a solid base; storm water collection system $10,000. Total $133,000.

✓ A 48-acre site known as the Henry-Tyree site, located across Caney Creek from KY-191 near Index. Purchase price $58,000. Estimated additional costs: access road $16,000; roadway lighting $8,000; grading site $21,000; water system $8,000; sewage disposal system $22,500; construction of a property entrance causeway to connect KY-191 with the property $60,000. Total $193,500.

✓ A site containing 25 to 30 acres owned by Clifford Long, located at Index, across Caney Creek from KY-191. Purchase price $60,000. Estimated additional costs: access road $16,000; roadway lighting $8,000; site grading $18,000; water system $8,000; sewage disposal system $22,500; construction of a property entrance causeway road $50,000. Total $182,500.

✓ A 30-acre site known as the Everett Henry property on low hills located at Index on the Licking River road just off US-460. Purchase price $50,000. Estimated additional costs: access road $16,000; roadway lighting $20,000; site grading $53,000; water system $8,000; sewage disposal system $26,500. Total: $173,500.

20 Acres Required

To meet state regulations governing new school construction the new facility would require at least 20 acres of land.

Dr. Alec Spencer, chairman of the board of education, conducted the meeting and threw the floor open for discussion of the advantages and drawbacks of each of the sites.

No New Taxes Foreseen

Later, Superintendent of Schools Walton Jones explained that the bulk of the $2 million cost would be financed by revenue bonds issued by the school board. The bonds, he said, would be amortized with state funds which are allotted to the school system on a yearly basis and would require no new local school taxes.

The school board will be able to float an estimated $1.4 million to $1,400,000 worth of bonds without the need of additional tax revenues, he said.

The remainder of the funds would come in the form of federal aid to education funds, Jones said.

The new high school's curriculum will stress vocational training and job counseling as well as regular academic courses. And Supt. Jones announced that the board is exploring the possibility of including space in the facility for year-round adult vocational training classes.

If the new school is designed as a community center for use year-round, additional federal grant money may be available to help with financing, Jones added.

Jones said the possibility exists that the State Highway Department might be able to construct an access road to the site selected.

Current plans call for a modern, showplace-type school to accommodate 1,000 students, the projected number which will be attending high school in Morgan County 10 years from now.

Planners hope to let construction bids on the new school sometime this fall. However, any advanced planning must await the school board's selection and purchase of a building site.

DEVILS FALL TO SANDY HOOK BUT WIN 2 LAST WK.

Jess Adkins, basketball coach at Sandy Hook High School, once told this reporter that no matter how many games his team lose, Elliott County fans consider their season an unqualified success if they can manage to defeat old rival Morgan County.

If this is so, Morgan High made Sandy Hook's season complete Tuesday evening. They lost to the Lions, 80-74, at Sandy Hook.

After leading by as much as seven points in the first period the Morgan lads, still without the services of guard Doug Jones, out with a leg injury, fell behind the Lions, 42-32. A Blue Devil rally in the third cut the score to 57-54, but the Sandy Hook lads kept the pressure on and a bevy of floor errors by Morgan County kept victory just beyond reach.

It was the Blue Devils fifth loss. They have won 16. Forward Edwin Brown led the Morgan team with 26 points and center Jim Hill collected 23, the only two Devils in double figures. Guard Jerry Fugate got 9, forward Lynn Hunley 7, and Tim Keller 6.

Four Sandy Hook players scored in double figures. Guard Terry Fraley got 26, forward Ronnie Adkins got 22, forward Dave Fox 14, guard Terry Prince 10, center Larry Hutchinson 6, and Mike Eldridge got 2.

In other action last week, the Blue Devils defeated Jackson and Nicholas County. At Jackson last Wednesday, Brown, Hill, and Hunley scored in double figures to help their teammates post a 66-41 victory.

At home on Friday night, the Devils scored 27 points, Brown scored 18, and Hill and Fugate got 16 apiece as the Devils posted an 87-54 victory over Nicholas County.

The Devils were scheduled to play a makeup game with Buckhorn last night at home. On Friday they will meet Wolfe County also at home, and next Tuesday will play Fleming County away.

NEW HOME MAIL DELIVERY PLAN SET FOR THIS AND OTHER COUNTIES

Expanded home mail delivery, principally in small communities, has been implemented by a new postal service program, and affects 80 Eastern Kentucky towns.

Persons living more than a quarter mile, but less than half a mile from the post office that do not have home delivery, are now eligible to receive delivery at home. Previously they had been compelled to go to the post office for their mail.

Since they live less than half a mile away from a post office, they have not been eligible to receive rural delivery service prior to the new order. And because they live near a post office that does not have city delivery they have missed out there, too.

The only requirement to obtain the service is that it must be requested of the postmaster, and a majority of those living in the area must desire the service.

Expansion will be achieved by such steps as extending rural routes and adding delivery stops to some rural routes. In other instances, "star" or contract route, may be used to provide the service; in some locations it may be necessary to establish new rural routes.

U. S. Sen. Marlow Cook, Kentucky-R has issued a statewide list of areas made eligible for the service expansion, and it includes, by counties:

Boyd, Rush, Breathitt, Lost Creek, Carter, Grahn, Grayson, Hinchins and Olive Hill; Elliott, Sandy Hook.

Morgan, Crockett and Ezel, Rowan, Clearfield, Elliottville and Farmers.

West Liberty Postmaster Wendell Nickell said this week that the new program will have little effect on rural mail delivery service in this county.

"As far as I know," Nickell said, "everyone who want mail delivery service is now getting it."

Nickell also said the new order will not alter the independent status of any of the county's rural postoffices.

FREE BUS PROGRAM EXPLAINED IN DETAIL BY OEO OFFICIAL

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A statement in the Odds and Ends column in this newspaper last week concerning Morgan County's federally-financed free bus program elicited the following response from Sidney Stewart, OEO coordinator for Morgan and Elliott Counties.)

The Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council is presently operating a bus that criss-crosses Morgan and Elliott Counties two or three times each week. The bus is an older Army Model that was secured through Army surplus for this purpose. (A weekly schedule can be found elsewhere in this paper.) The bus is operated for the benefit of those persons that cannot afford the price of a car and the fee required to hire transportation.

In order for a person to ride the bus, he must go to the Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council Office in West Liberty and or Sandy Hook and fill out an application to determine his or her eligibility and, then, and only then, issued a permanent ticket.

The only way that a person whose income is above the poverty guidelines can secure a ticket in by misrepresentation of the facts, and if this is done, any citizens who is knowledgeable of the fact can come to the Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council Office and file a complaint and the matter will receive prompt attention.

This does not mean that if a person who does not meet the poverty guidelines is found along the road with a broken down car that we would pass him up, but it does mean that we only issue tickets to persons who meet Federal poverty guidelines.

The primary reason that the bus runs is to help those persons living in rural Morgan and Elliott County to become more mobile; and therefore, have somewhat of a better chance of helping themselves. We find that some persons shop while in town, and go to the courthouse on business purposes. Up to this point we have found that for the most part, the folks that ride the free bus come to town for medical reasons.

The Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council would like to take this opportunity to thank this paper for making it possible for us to publish our weekly bus schedule without cost.

STATE SCHOOL BOARD ASSN. SAYS IT'S AGAINST TEACHER STRIKE

The Board of Directors of the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA) issued a statement Sunday condemning teacher strikes as "illegal" and "disruptive," and "deplorable" such action taken against the children, parents and duly elected officials of the Commonwealth.

"Sanctions, strikes, work stoppages or other disruptive action to the orderly operation of our public school program in the Commonwealth is shocking and displeasing," the school officials said.

According to the statement, the principle objections of KSBA to teacher strikes are as follows:

(1) "Such action would be illegal," and the school boards association "cannot be placed in the tenuous position of encouraging illegal acts."

(2) "Strikes actions would amount to a breach of contract" by teachers.

(3) A strike could jeopardize the instructional program for children, "the very group for which our public schools are operated."

(4) "We cannot afford to have those who teach our children—by instruction and by their acts—set an example of disobedience and disregard for the laws and professional ethics of our society."

(5) Strikes damage "the image of our public schools and of our public school teachers" and endanger "public support for the operation and improvement of the vital and necessary institution of public education."

The statement notes that increased pay for teachers "has long been a high-priority goal" of KSBA, and that "the average salary of Kentucky teachers has been increased by more than 100 percent over the past ten years."

The KSBA directors also stated their support of "cost-of-living" salary and wage adjustments for both teachers

MORGAN STILL CONFISCATED

Local officers and federal agents arrested a Morgan County last week at his residence and confiscated a moonshine still.

Omar Young, 29, Rt. 3, West Liberty, pleaded guilty Feb. 10 to possession of a still in Morgan County Quarterly Court, and was fined $100, costs, and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by Judge Gene Allen.

The incident occurred at 5 p.m. Monday, Feb. 9, on Powder Branch. Confiscated were one 20 gallon still pot complete; 30 gallon thump keg; 30 gallon mash fermenter; 55 gallon mash fermenter; 30 gallon flask stand, and 100 bottles of varied sizes.

Participating in the raid with agents of the Alcohol, Tobacco & Fire Arms Division, U. S. Treasury Department, were Morgan Sheriff James Brooks, and Kentucky State Police Trooper Alonzo Hensley.

HWY. OFFICIALS HEAR COUNTY'S ROAD REQUESTS

State Highway Department officials met with the fiscal court Monday to hear recommendations for Morgan's 190-71 County Road Aid Program.

The court requested that the program remain unchanged from last year and asked that 2 new construction projects be added, as follows—

Improvement of 3 mile of Cow Branch road.

Inclusion of the Jones Creek-Malone road bridge as a maintenance project.

Construction of Lick Branch-Middlefork road, beginning at the junction of KY-589 and extending south 1.5 miles.

Construction of Straight Creek-Redwine road, beginning at the end of KY-711 and extending southeast 3.5 miles.

CENSUS TAKERS ARE NEEDED FOR 1970 CENSUS

Jim Nickell, District Manager of the 1970 Census of Population and Housing which starts April 1, has issued an appeal to residents of the area to apply for jobs as census takers.

Applicants must be 18 years old or over and citizens of the United States. They will be required to pass a selection test demonstrating their ability to understand printed instructions and do some simple arithmetic. Many will need a car in their work, and if so, mileage will be paid.

Census takers will be paid on a piece rate basis designed to average $2.00 per hour, although hourly earnings will vary depending on the diligence of individuals, according to the District Manager who pointed out that some will earn well above average, while others who work less efficiently will earn less. Weekly earnings for a full 40-hour week might range from $60 to more than $100, he said. The average assignment for a census taker will last from three to five weeks beginning March 30.

The Census Bureau is an equal opportunity employer.

Candidates for jobs as census takers may see the following census representatives:

Mrs. Ruth Wolchick and Mrs. John Richmond, at Breathitt County Vocational School, February 25, 26, 27th, at 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m.

HEART FUND DRIVE ENDS SUNDAY, 22ND

Miss Mary Ann Foudray, chairman of the annual Heart Sunday drive for the Morgan County Heart Fund, reminds volunteers and citizens that Heart Sunday is Feb. 22—this Sunday.

At that time, volunteers in each community throughout the county will make door-to-door solicitations in an effort to bring Morgan's donations for the year above the goal of $2,000.

Heart Fund treasurer Lanny Franklin reported this week that collections turned in to him thus far total about $670.00.

County campaign chairman, Mrs. James R. Perry reminds that the Heart Drive ends Sunday and urges all citizens to give generously when volunteers call.

Mrs. Perry reports that the spaghetti supper held Saturday night netted $155.00. Around 150 persons braved snow and cold to attend the event.

Coffee Day receipts netted $88.84, she said.

Additional Jurors Summoned, And Cases Set Through Tuesday

Due to sickness, majority flu, fewer than half of the 60 citizens summoned for jury service reported at the opening of the February term of Morgan circuit court on Monday.

The grand jury and 17 petit jurors were empaneled on Monday. Additional jurors were summoned to report Tuesday, when the petit juries were completed.

Members of the grand jury are—F. M. Gambill, foreman; Mae Williams, Hannah Maxey, Bonnie Cox, Wm. E. Wright, Everett Nickell, Eugene Easterling, H. B. Cox, Roxie Allen, James Whitt, and Anna Ison.

The grand jury had returned eight indictments by Wednesday when court was recessed at noon.

The indictments are—child desertion 1, obtaining money under false pretense 1, failure to comply with court order 1, forgery 3, misdemeanors 2.

Through Wednesday there had been no jury trials. The case against Carson Perkins and Russell Harper charged with malicious shooting and wounding with intent to kill, was called Tuesday and continued until the May term. They allegedly shot at Pearl Cornett, Jr.

A civil case is set for Thursday—that of Hager and Junita Ray against Delbert L. Peyton for damages allegedly resulting from an auto accident.

Two felony cases are set for Friday—one against Earl R. Elam and Jimmy Howard for grand larceny; and one against Jimmy Elam, Donald Howard, Larkin Phipps, Larry Gevedon, Gordon King and Lester Elam charged with entering the Cannel City school lunchroom and taking items of value.

U.S. Savings Bonds pay higher interest.

Now it's official.

Now one of the safest investments in the world brings you new and higher returns.

Now your U.S. Savings Bonds pay the highest interest in history: a full 5 per cent when held to maturity of 5 years and 10 months. (4% the first year; 5.20% thereafter to maturity.) Previously, these Bonds earned you only 4 1/4% if you held them for seven years.

The new interest began June 1, 1969. So all of the Bonds you own, no matter when you bought them, have been collecting higher interest since that time.

Those Bonds are still replaced if lost, stolen or burned.

You can still buy them through Payroll Savings or the Bond-a-Month plan.

Regardless of your other investments, can you think of any easier, better, or safer way to build a nest egg for yourself?

It's nice to know that you are doing a little something for Uncle Sam, too. The $52 billion in U.S. Savings Bonds now outstanding in the hands of millions of Americans go a long way toward keeping your country financially strong.

Some Paradoxes of the Space Age

By RUFUS M. REED

The decade of the 'sixties just passed was The Golden Age of Technology, when man developed computers that can do a million calculations in a matter of seconds; it was also by contrast the age of the worst pollution of air and water ever known in the history of the human race. It was the age in which we put men on the moon at a cost to the taxpayers of many billions; at the same time, in India and other undeveloped countries of the world multiplied thousands of children were slowly dying from malnutrition.

The decade of the 'sixties was an age in which the human race made more scientific progress in the brief span of 10 years than was made in any period of 100 years of previous history. But man's progress in the fields of Science and Technology has left the human race dazzled and bewildered fearful of what the future may hold; man's computers can solve problems in seconds that stagger the imagination, but they cannot solve the pressing problems which threaten the future existence of the race.

They cannot tell us how to prevent air and water pollution; they cannot solve the problem of the population explosion that threatens to engulf the earth and bring worldwide famine. We have been hypnotized, too long dazzled, by the sweeping advance of Science and Technology, so that we have stood supinely and let our environment become foul and polluted.

Today we are a prosperous nation, we have plenty to eat, good homes, clothing, cars, television sets, and we have lots of leisure time, but are we enjoying these things?

We have more than ever before in the history of man but we are enjoying it less. Man would like to stop his rat race row and then go out and enjoy nature and find rest from the turmoil of everyday life. But there is less of nature to enjoy; if man goes to the public parks for a brief rest, he finds them overgrown; he finds beer cans and pop bottles and cartons scattered everywhere; he finds garbage dumps overrun with all kinds of refuse and waste.

The worst pollution of the air occurred in the early part of the decade of the 'sixties. We had developed the mighty atomic bomb and nations were eager to test its awesome power by setting off huge explosions in the atmosphere; it was a criminal act against humanity. Our own nation is equally as guilty as Russia in this regard. These two world powers set off huge atomic blasts that had enough megatonnage to wipe out the largest city in the world; and they set off these explosions right in the air we have to breathe; they caused atomic fallout that poisoned the air and earth. After these tests, no less an authority than U. Thant, U. N. Secretary General, declared:

"There are radiations poisoning the bones of every child born in the age of atomic testing."

Today as a result of these diabolical tests, all of us have more or less of Strontium 90 in our bones; it is in the food we eat, and no one can predict what the results may be on the generations as yet unborn. Also as an after effect of the widespread use of dangerous pesticides like DDT all of us have a residue of it in the fatty tissues of the body; we also have lead in our blood stream from breathing air contaminated with the combustion of engines using leaded gasoline.

Not long ago, The National Wild Life Federation issued a report on the environment of this country; it was terse and to the point. The report read: AIR: Very bad; WATER: Bad; SOIL: FORESTS: WILD LIFE: In Fair condition. No mention was made of the pollution of the oceans of the world, but they too are badly polluted. The saddest picture I have seen lately was that of a pied billed grebe that had swum into an oil slick; feathers all gummed up, smeared and sticky with an oil slick, the poor, polluted bird couldn't swim any more and there it stood with an expression on its face denoting shock, even horror and terror; it seemed to be saying, why have they done this thing to me? This example is typical of what is happening to much of our ocean life.

Our deepest thinkers of today point out some of the puzzling paradoxes of our modern space age: As we get more leisure time to enjoy the earth and its beauties, there is ever less and less of it to enjoy; as our society grows richer and more prosperous, the environment become poorer, all fouled and filthy.

It seems our buzzing electronic brains have out-distanced our souls and set at naught the need of the human spirit, which must have a measure of peace and time to meditate. We have been catapulted into The Age of High Speed and Electronic brains; we rush to and fro to find happiness and peace, while the spirit and soul lag behind, lost in the slough of bewilderment and despond.

So our problems of the 'seventies are monumental, and our needs are great. But if we snap out of our complacency and put our shoulders to the wheel, we can solve them. We can and we must clean up our streams; we can and we must free our air of poisons; we can and we must stop the erosion of our soil. It takes nature 400 years to build one inch of good topsoil, but a big flood tearing madly down from gutted and denuded mountains can wash away that much soil in a matter of hours. The challenges of the next decade are heavy on the human race but we can meet them if we have the fortitude and the courage to rise up and demand our rights to pure air and water.

JEFFERSONVILLE

By Mrs. C. F. Bolin Feb. 9—Mrs. Lawrence Faw of Lexington spent Saturday with the writer. She is the only niece I have. I was glad for her to visit me.

I received word this week that my sister-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Craft of Middletown, Ohio had a slight heart attack and was in the Middletown Hospital.

Ronnie Kemplin of this place had a bad car wreck near Mt. Sterling, got his arm broken and received cuts and bruises. The other boy, a Clements, was killed. It took an hour to get the cars apart.

Get well wishes go to Grace Bedford, Delah McCoy, Maude Daniels, Margaret Lovely, Winnie Kemplin.

C. F. Bolin and Willard Craft were up in Menifee one day last week. Willard stayed a few days and visited some friends in the Big Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lovelace were down here looking for a place to buy. They have their farm at Ezel up for sale.

In memory of my mother, Mrs. Martha Stamper, who passed away Feb. 17, 1963—Gone from us leaving memories That death can never take away Memories that will always linger

While on this earth we stay, From our happy home and circle God has taken one we loved. Borne away from sin and sorrow To a better home above. In our heart memories linger But we know it's in vain to weep Tears of love can never awake her From her long and peaceful sleep.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Medicare beneficiaries should carefully check the "Explanation of Benefits" form sent to them after Medicare has made payment for hospital or physicians' services they have received.

If the payment record is incorrect, the beneficiary should report any discrepancy to his social security office or to the Medicare paying agent immediately. Thomas B. Thompson, social security district manager, said this week.

Thompson emphasized that errors in billing can occur. A careful check of payment records can prevent fraud or error, he added.

"In a program as large as Medicare," Thompson said, "with over 122 million bills received each year, even a tiny percentage of incorrect billings can add up to a lot of money." By reporting any apparent mistakes, Thompson added, Medicare beneficiaries can help keep costs down.

Of 2,500 cases of errors or discrepancies in Medicare bills reported by beneficiaries, Medicare carriers, intermediaries, and others, and recorded in the SSA's control system, Thompson said, over half turned out to be the result of clerical error or misunderstanding. But others did reveal evidence of attempts at abuse or intent to defraud.

But it is SSA policy, he said, to carefully check all reports and other evidence of irregularity to assure that incorrect payments are not made.

MORGAN JR. HIGH TRIUMPHS AGAIN

Friday, Feb. 13 the Morgan County Junior High Devils won their second game of the week by defeating the Wrigley Wildcats 49-35. The game was played as a preliminary before the Morgan-Nicholas County game which was also won by the Blue Devils.

Beginning the game with an all-court press helped the junior-high Blue Devils jump to a 25-11 first quarter lead. The Wrigley Wildcats were able to slow the second quarter down and with both teams committing numerous floor errors the score at half-time was 29-15 with the Blue Devils still on top.

The Blue Devils again took charge the third quarter to cut-point the Wrigley lads 14-9 and give them the lead 43-24. The Wildcats were unable to contain Hank Allen of the Blue Devils who added 12 points to his first quarter tally of 11 before fouling out in the beginning of the fourth quarter with 23 points.

The fourth quarter belonged to the Wrigley lads as they cut scored Morgan County 11-6 to make the final score 49-25 with the Blue Devils on top.

The individual scoring for both teams was - Morgan County - Hank Allen 25, Greg Phillips 3, Marcus Jenkins 7, Kent Nickells 4, Keith Hammons 12.

Wrigley - Rocky Howard 10, Kenny Adkins 4, Steve O'Connor 4, Ralph Ratliff 1, and Kevin Ratliff with 12.

The Blue Devils meet with the Wildcats again Thursday Feb. 19 at 7:30 in the Wrigley gym. Coach Hicks says the game will be an even contest in the smaller Wrigley gym and the team with the most desire will win. Tournament action begins next week.

Stocks Decline $133 Billion, Thousands Lose Jobs

Stocks have taken their worst beating in six years during the long bear market that still plagues Wall Street.

But few people realize the awesome toll that has paid for this decline in terms of market dollars.

Take the New York Stock Exchange, for example. The Big Board's own index of all listed securities ended at the end of November, 1968. At that time, the total value of common and preferred stocks stood at $716.4-billion.

Fourteen months later—at the end of January, 1970—the value of Big Board securities had dwindled to $582.7-billion, despite an increase in the number of listed shares during the interim from 13 billion to 15 billion. This means $133.7 billion worth of stocks washed down the drain—an amount nearly double the Administration's $71.8-billion military budget for fiscal 1970, or more than a dozen times the Federal Government's projected $10.6-billion for education spending.

The nation's unemployment rate jumped to 3.9 per cent from 3.4 per cent in January and last week Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, predicted it will climb to 4.3 per cent, or "maybe a little higher." But these are not just statistics, they are people; for each per cent the unemployment rate rises, about 800,000 people lose their jobs.

BUSINESS HERE AND HEREABOUTS

The dean of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture yesterday called for the formation of an organization with the sole aim of telling the farm story.

Speaking to the 24th annual convention of the Kentucky Farm & Power Equipment Dealers Association at the Executive Inn, Dr. Charles E. Barnhart, the dean, said ways must be found to instill more pride in people in the farming industry.

"We are suffering from an image that doesn't exist," the dean said. While it is true that farming is a declining industry in terms of the number of people involved—only six per cent—it also is true that one-third of the people employed in the United States are working in an agricultural allied industry.

Barnhart said no industry can take greater pride in its accomplishments than agriculture, and "probably no industry in the United States works on as small a return per dollar invested as farmers. I sometimes am amazed so many stay in the business."

KENTUCKY DISTILLERS now can legally produce light whiskey. Both the House and the Senate approved an amendment to KRS 244.370 which will permit the new type whiskey to be stored in used cooperage. The Amendment, introduced in the House by Representative Bernard Keene and in the Senate by Senator William R. Gentry, has no effect on the way in which Bourbon whiskey is aged. Federal law requires that Bourbon be aged in new oak barrels—light whiskey, distilled at higher proof than Bourbon, is expected to compete with imported spirits in the growing market for beverages lighter than the traditional Kentucky Bourbon.

SLOWDOWN — Assistant Vice President of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, C. B. Luttrell, told the Kentucky Agricultural Council at its meeting in Louisville "a slow-down in the nation's economy is under way. He told the farm council he thinks the peak in interest rates has been reached and that prices will soon begin to stabilize.

Five Kentucky Streams On "Protect List"

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Five Kentucky streams have been recommended for state protection by the Kentucky Advisory Commission on Wild Rivers.

The commission, named in 1963 to compensate for the fact that the federal government did not include any Kentucky rivers in its wild rivers program, made its first report to Gov. Louie B. Nunn Thursday.

It recommended priority status for stretches of the Cumberland River, Red River, Rockcastle River, Green River, and the Big South Fork of the Cumberland.

The commission also said it hopes to recommend other streams for preservation during the year it has left to serve.

Kentucky Cuts Agency Trips

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The Finance Department has fixed ceilings for out-of-state travel for all state agencies plus state universities because, according to Albert Christen, Finance Commissioner, too many employees were going to national conventions unnecessarily.

NIXON BUDGET RECOMMENDS ACP PROGRAM BE DISCONTINUED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — Administration farm officials are a little reluctant to discuss a budget proposal to eliminate a longtime soil conservation program while on the other hand President Nixon talks about fighting pollution more effectively.

The budget recommended eliminating the 34-year-old Agricultural Conservation Program which provides federal funds to farmers for carrying out certain conservation practices such as terracing, planting grass and building ponds.

Payments would be continued next fiscal year to meet current commitments but no new funds would be requested. In this way, the Nixon budget said, spending could be cut $66 million the first year and $233 million thereafter.

The ACP program, long a favorite in Congress, has cost about $200 million a year in recent times. It also has withstood repeated presidential onslaughts before.

Last year the outgoing Johnson administration recommended a sharp cut in ACP financing, and soon after the Nixon administration took over the program was wiped out by 1969-70 budget planners.

Congress, however, later restored almost full authorization for ACP spending. Now the Nixon administration is trying once more to phase out the conservation program while calling for more action on other environmental efforts.

"Despite current budget stringency," Nixon told Congress in his budget message last week, "we must find a way to move aggressively on these problems now. Delay would make our environment more unlivable, and raise the costs of what we must do in any event."

The highest priority, Nixon said, will go for attacking water and air pollution.

Farm conservationists, however, say they cannot understand a distinction between the goals of ACP and what Nixon says are the highest priorities for cleaning up the nation's air and water.

Growing concern over possible agricultural pollution from pesticides, commercial fertilizer, livestock feedlots and the long-standing threats from water and wind erosion of soil should put treatment of farm land among the highest priorities cited by the White House, some say.

This point was raised at an Agriculture Department budget briefing but officials could not satisfactorily explain what the administration had in mind by wanting ACP eliminated and yet asking more attention for other environmental problems.

Rather, a spokesman said, critics of ACP — which pays farmers for about half the cost of carrying out conservation practices — claim landowners should apply the techniques without government financing, that the methods have been demonstrated and proved over many years.

Also, the officials said, some authorities claim the conservation practices actually mean more production for a farmer and therefore are not purely conservation in character.

But the odds-makers are betting these will be ineffective arguments when Congress gets around to considering the second attempt by the Nixon administration to scrap ACP spending.

DETAILS OF NEW FARMLAND TAX AMENDMENT OUTLINED IN BILL

FRANKFORT, Ky. — A bill was introduced in the House last week which outlines how the new farmland amendment should be implemented.

The bill is the result of lengthy conferences between the State Revenue Department and the Kentucky Farm Bureau, sponsors of the successful amendment.

The version that emerged is a kind of "agreed" pact that imposes some rigid limitations on what land qualifies for special assessment treatment.

State voters approved last November an amendment which changes the current standard for assessing farmland whose valuation is greater than normal because of urban influences.

Essentially, the proposal, introduced by Reps. John Swinford of Cynthiana and Bernard Keene of Bardonia, seems to protect horticultural and agricultural land near urban areas from ordinary fair cash valuation so long as such land would be used for those purposes only.

For example, agricultural land under the bill must be at least 10 acres devoted to production of livestock or crops and producing an average gross income of at least $1,000 per year.

This apparently allays the concern of opponents who said that anyone might take advantage of the amendment by setting aside a small plot of land and putting a goat on it.

Horticultural land would have to be at least five acres, also with a $1,000 gross from income floor.

Another section specifies that the land must have been in agricultural or horticultural use for the preceding five years and that where the land has been zoned for any other use — at the owners' request — fair cash assessment will apply.

Excluded from lower valuations is land used for farming but held for future development for a corporation.

If the lower-assessed land is sold for more than 25 per cent above its agricultural value, the sale price would be automatic evidence that its use has changed and the valuation is to go up.

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET

How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood,
When fond recollection presents them to view!

The orchard, the meadow, and every loved spot which my infancy knew,
The wide-spreading pond and the mill which stood by it.

The bridge and the rock where the cataraet fell;
The cot of my father, the dairy house nigh it,

And e'en the rude bucket which hung in the well.
The old oaken bucket, the iron-bound bucket,

The moss-covered bucket which hung in the well.

TOM DUNCAN'S—

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

FRANKFORT — Inertia builds checks, if not balances, into Kentucky's legislative process.

The odds almost always are against change. The burden always lies with those seeking change.

Anyone trying to push a bill through the committees—and floors—of both chambers finds somewhere along the line the frustration of sheer indifference if not outright opposition.

And with the session past the halfway mark, inertia is working FOR those favoring Daylight Saving Time and AGAINST those seeking changes in the Sunday closing law.

It also compounds the Kentucky Education Association's problem in pushing a 4-cent boost in the cigarette tax.

With the Farm Bureau massing against the KEA, it's certain the lawmakers can't be moved to pass the tax without a teacher's strike. And in this atmosphere, even a strike may not be lucky.

The Farm Bureau and KEA went almost hand-in-hand for raising the sales tax two years ago. But these two giant lobbies seem destined to battle through out this session.

In addition to cigarette taxes, they'll surely differ on changing the "roll-back" law now freezing most property taxes.

This could even spill over into a fight on implementing the farm-tax amendment. The Farm Bureau's bill is hand-crafted to stay within the bounds of its campaign promises to the voters.

Still, snipers could aim at the bill's protection for "farms" as small as 10 acres and horticultural tracts of only 5 acres—or other details of the bill.

Inertia probably won't be a factor on two emotional issues. Outright opposition to bills to ban sex-education and to authorize state aid to teachers in parochial schools probably will keep both measures bottled in committee.

The Democrats' budget package contained an ironic twist.

In ordering Tazewell Tuberculosis Hospital in Louisville converted to a facility for the retarded, they took one problem off Republican Gov. Louie Nunn's hands.

There had been a recommendation inside his administration that he do by executive order what the Democrats did for him.

But the governor was in a ticklish spot. He's from Glasgow. So is the father of the state TB Hospital system, Dr. C. C. Howard. And one of the TB hospitals is in Glasgow.

Any move by the governor could have been suspect — or explosive. Now that bomb's defused for him.

Each session produces its jester. The competition now seems between two Republican representatives, Bruce Blythe of Louisville and R. K. Keith of Hodgenville.

Blythe continues to perform near the mark he set in 1968 during debate on a bill to require 7-foot fences around nudist colonies. He asked the time-tested political question:

"What does it do for the little man?"

Keith showed his mettle when his bill to extend the meat inspection law to include poultry and rabbits drew some heated opposition. Never losing his cool, he carried the day by saying:

"Everybody knows it's finger-lickin' good—I'm just trying to make it finger-lickin' safe."

Reporters and editorial writers have received some barbs, both good-natured and not. But all got a chuckle from one representative who wanted newsmen barred from a committee meeting—and complained that he saw some "unrecognizable faces" in the room.

Kentucky residents enrolled in the University of Kentucky at Lexington total 11,787—approximately 77 per cent of the student population.

LITTLE-KNOWN FACTS ABOUT THE CAR LICENSE LAW

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Several misconceptions regarding Kentucky's automobile license law were pointed out by Maurice Carpenter, director of the Revenue Department's motor vehicle tax division.

"Some drivers think it's legal to continue to use an auto tag issued by a county of former residence, after moving to another county," Carpenter said. "It's perfectly legal, but at the end of the year, the new plate should be bought in the county of actual residence."

What about out-of-state tags? A motorist moving to Kentucky, with the intention of staying, is required by law to buy a Kentucky car plate within five days. A visitor may use an out-of-state tag for 30 days, or as long a period as his home state permits a Kentucky plate to be used there.

Except in Henderson County, where the county clerk reports the sale of 1970 auto tags "normal," sale of license plates lags, Carpenter said. The lag is blamed on the bad weather. New tags must be on passenger cars and motorcycles by March 1 and on trucks by April 1.

RANGER COLUMN

BY DICK BONYATA
District Ranger

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 26 — Private forest lands in Bath, Carter, Fleming, Greenup, Lewis and Rowan Counties occupy 743,000 acres or 54 percent of the land area and contribute substantially to the economy. But the historical effect of little or no management and many harvests have depleted the forest resource. These forests are producing well below their capacity. In order to encourage private forest landowners to undertake management of their forested holdings, the Kentucky Timber Development Organization study was initiated in August of 1967. The study obtained data pertinent to forests, forestry, forest industry, landowners interest in the proposed TDO and other factors which will have a direct bearing on the scope and operation of the proposed TDO. The study was completed in June, 1968, and is now ready to be implemented.

There are many benefits that may be derived from a Timber Development Organization in this six county area. A TDO offers an opportunity for bringing intensification of forest management to the area. A primary goal of a TDO would be to seek a proper balance of timber harvest to improve size class and species distribution and levels of stocking. This would be done by concentrating on the harvest of mature sawtimber, removal of poorly formed, diseased and other undesirable trees through commercial thinning and timber stand improvement work.

The TDO would actively seek information on available wood markets from the industry and assist the landowners in placing his timber in the market yielding the highest return.

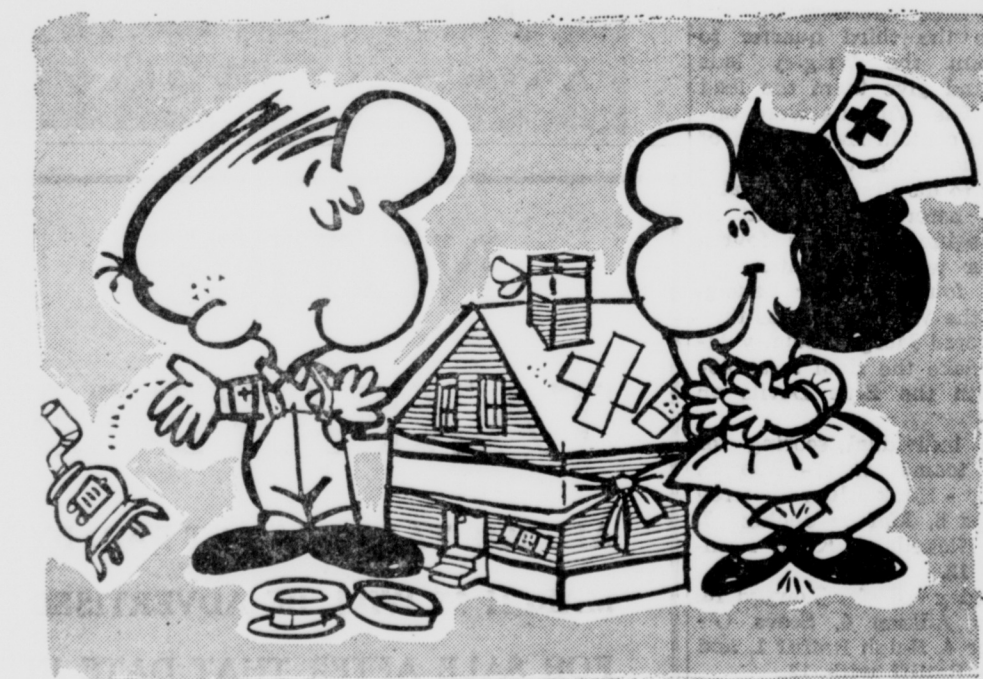

A TDO can also benefit industry. Working closely with a TDO, industry gains knowledge of timber supplies, availability, location and grades. Less time would be spent in wood purchasing activities, resulting in savings to the firm.

The opportunity for forest land development in the six county area rests ultimately with the local landowners. Without their needed support and membership, a TDO in this area will fall by the way side. Personal assistance of the landowners is vital to the success of a TDO.

About a year ago, I asked her what field of education she planned to major in. She "floored" me by saying, "I want to be a band director". Valentine's Day, Saturday the 14, made an impressive appearance in our area. At day break, the ground was already covered with a blanket of snow, and by early afternoon, we had five inches or more of the white fluffy stuff.

Winter in Kentucky—we have had it. I doubt that Sewell has quite forgiven me yet, for not remaining in Sunny California for the winter, where the roses and flowers are still blooming.

And by the way, where the snow has melted around the chimney just this morning I saw a little crocus peeping through. We will have flowers soon. That's Kentucky.

ADJUSTMENT ERRORS ARE CAUSING
DELAY IN TAX REFUNDS, IRS SAYS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Early Federal Income Tax Returns indicate that many taxpayers are making errors in claiming adjustments to their income which may delay their refunds, the Internal Revenue Service said today.

The term "Adjustments," as used on the tax form, refers only to sick pay, moving expenses, employee business expenses, and payments to self employment retirement plans. The total of these items is entered on Line 15B of the Form 1040, the IRS said.

Some taxpayers are incorrectly reporting on Line 15B, the total of their itemized deductions such as interest expense, state and local taxes, contributions, medical, or miscellaneous expenses. These deductions should be computed and entered on the appropriate schedules as provided in the instructions.

The IRS also said that taxpayers are making mistakes by including as adjustments the exemption allowances for themselves, husband or wives, children, or other dependents. For taxpayers who use the tax table to compute their tax, the exemption allowance is already figured into the table. Taxpayers who use the tax rate schedules should make their computation on schedule T, which is included in the regular tax packet.

To avoid errors in claiming adjustments, the IRS suggested that taxpayers read the instructions carefully and make sure they have attached the proper supporting documents.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

By DOUGLAS HOWARD

A number of informative news letters, circulars, and publications are being made available to our people through either state, area, and local Extension Agents. Some of these news letters are as follows:

Vegetable Growers News Letter.

Greenhouse Growers News Letter.

Agricultural Engineering News Letter.

Beef Cattle Facts.

Timely Tips for Dairywomen.

Fruit Growers Spray Letter.

Bee Keepers Quarterly News (State Department).

Agronomy News Letter (State and Area).

Kentucky Agri-Business Spotlight (Ag Economics).

"How-To" in Gardening.

Anyone wishing to receive one or more of these on a regular basis may do so by submitting their names and address to the Extension Office in West Liberty.

Take a soil test of your lawn before planting shrubbery. The soils laboratory at the University of Kentucky will test your lawn soil for lime, phosphorus, and potassium for $1.00. Take a composite sample by getting 10 or more equal-sized cores or slices from the top 2 to 6 inches of soil. Place the cores or slices in a clean pail and mix thoroughly. Spread the mixture on clean paper to air-dry. Do not heat. Fill a clean container with a half-pint or more of this air-dried mixture and bring it to the County Extension Office.

Toward the end of the month when the ground has thawed, you can start planting deciduous trees and shrubs (those that lose their leaves in winter). Trees planted at this time will have more time to root into the soil before the top part leaves out. If your plants are balled and burlapped, be sure to make the holes at least six inches larger than the soil ball. For a one and one-half diameter tree, the hole should be approximately 30 inches deep and at least that wide. Mix the soil with half by volume of sphagnum peat moss before refilling. Add a couple of handfuls of lime to neutralize the acidity of the peat. Do this only if the new plant requires a neutral or alkaline soil.

Commissioner of Agriculture

Kentucky farmers are to have filled out and returned their census forms by February 15.

Those who fail to complete the forms and return them will be contacted by a census worker. A visit, if necessary, will be made by a field staff worker to obtain the questionnaire.

I hope that because the census is being taken by mail that Kentucky farmers will not think it less important than in previous years. In fact, the opposite is true — that is, the information being gathered is as important, if not more so, than 10 or 20 years ago.

Not only are farmers asked to complete the census forms on time, but are also urged to make the information as accurate as possible. Remember, the data you supply becomes a part of the over-all story of American agriculture.

We know, without taking a census, that agriculture is changing. We know that our rural communities are undergoing vast changes. But just how great these changes are we cannot know without taking an inventory. This is the purpose of the census.

INSPIRATION
CORNER

By Louise Lee Winchip

Four-year-old Dee-Dee was spending the morning with me. This isn't often my privilege as much as the attention of dish work and four-year-olds are conflicting. This time, I decided to try it out for awhile anyway. What a precious child and what a blessing was mine to have her for the morning.

Suzanne, the dolly was available to Dee-Dee. She changed Suzanne's dress—looking over the assortment of clothing very carefully. She noted a sweater and a cap, "needed to keep her warm." There was a "bib to keep her dress clean." I watched her and listened to her commenting on the clothing a few minutes.

What a lesson to learn from her actions. She was doing the things for her dolly, that were familiar and part of her life. She wears an apron to meals, a cap and sweater to keep her warm.

Dear Readers, what a responsibility is ours. The younger ones watch us, they imitate us—they follow us. Their whole life is being influenced by the training they receive now. How important it is to teach and train these little preschoolers now, while their minds are alert and active.

Is it any wonder, God's Word says: "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6. Another verse says: "Even a child is known by his doings, whether his work be pure, and whether it be right." Proverbs 20:11.

Do you not see our responsibility in training them? Surely a child reflects his training, and we must be sure that he is taught the right thing.

Four-year-olds imitating older people can be a help to them, and also a hindrance. Let us make sure they have the right pattern to follow.

ODDS AND ENDS

By Earl Kinner, Jr.

A public meeting held Monday to bring citizens up to date on the county school board's plan to replace Morgan's two high schools with an ultra-modern central school drew only a sparse crowd, the majority of which were teachers, with only a spattering of interested citizens. The fact that plans for the new school already have been revealed in considerable detail in the columns of this newspaper may have had some bearing on the turnout. Another explanation, of course, is that planners quite early in the game revealed that no additional tax levies will be needed to finance the facility. Wonder how big the turnout would have been had it been announced beforehand that completion of the new school would require a hike in local school tax assessments?

Incidentally, little additional progress is expected on the school project until the board of education selects a building site. Five sites currently are being considered (see page 1 story).

Tuesday was a bad day for Morgan County basketball teams and Elliott County fans are jubilant.

On Tuesday, five games between Elliott County teams and Morgan County teams were played and the Elliott County fans won them all.

In the big one between Morgan County High and Sandy Hook, the Lions walloped the Blue Devils, 80-74. And the Sandy B-team downed their Morgan County counterparts, 44-41.

Also, Isonville Junior High downed Crockett Junior High, 21-17; the Isonville Junior B-team beat Crockett's B-team, 18-12; and Sandy Hook's eighth grade basketball team defeated the Morgan County eighth grade, 45-42.

Basketball rivalry between Morgan and Elliott is keen. And it's no secret that no matter how many games Sandy Hook loses, Elliott County fans feel they've had a successful season if they beat Morgan County.

A statement in this column last week concerning the county's federally-financed free bus project apparently was not altogether correct. We stated that under the non-discriminatory interpretation of OEO, anybody can ride the bus. This statement elicited a response (published elsewhere in this edition) from one of the folks who administers the program. Actually the bus is for low income folks and elderly people without cars. However, be it noted that anybody, regardless of income, who really needs a ride will not be turned down. Our statement last week was based on a misinterpretation of the "non-discriminatory" phrase, which apparently applies only to race, creed, and sex, and not to income status.

While President Nixon is talking about finding ways to combat pollution and protect the environment, administration farm officials are reluctant to discuss a budget proposal to eliminate the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) which provides federal funds to help farmers carry out certain types of conservation practices which help combat pollution and conserve land. What's that old saying about the right hand not knowing what the left hand's doing?

Researchers at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture have found that by the time the average Kentuckian reaches his seventieth birthday, he will have consumed 150 head of beef cattle, 24,000 chickens, 225 lambs, 26 sheep, 310 hogs, 26 acres of various grains and 50 acres of fruits and fresh vegetables. The report did not mention the amount of bicarbonate of soda consumed by Kentuckians.

Had the flu? If you haven't yet, odds are that you will. This county is experiencing a flu epidemic of monumental proportions. Each of Morgan's three M.D.s are treating as many as 25 to 30 new flu cases per day. And the "bug" generally lasts five or six miserable days. What with all the sickness, and bad weather business has slowed to a crawl, and fishin' weather seems a long way off.

A poor memory may have been a blessing in the days when life was short and most people lived close to the personal tragedy of losing loved ones to various dread diseases. Now, however, a short memory can mean loss of the sense of values essential to perpetuation of present-day health and living standards—a fact that is made only too clear in an advertisement of a large pharmaceutical company. It is entitled "Forgotten Killers" and tells how, not long ago, an eleven-year-old Boston boy was asked if he knew who discovered the vaccine that has virtually wiped out polio. The boy replied, "What's polio?" The company sponsoring the advertisement is one of those who manufactured the Salk vaccine on a mass-production scale so that there was widespread availability of it by 1955.

"The small son of a doctor answered the phone and told the caller that his father was not at home. 'Do you know when he will be in?' he was asked. 'No, I don't,' said the boy. 'He went out on an eternity case.'"

EVIDENCE OF TREASURE

From a 1940 Issue of Clay City Times:

Joe Mountz brought to our office Saturday a stone with the following carved on it: John Swift, 1771. This stone was unearthed in the hunt going on for Swift's silver mines on Devil's Creek, Wolfe county. Evidence of some kind of smelting having gone on many years ago is very obvious, but nothing definite is known of it, and but little is being uncovered after much prospecting and developing.

KY. FARM BUREAU
WILL FIGHT TAX ON CIGARETTES

LOUISVILLE KY., February 12—Louis F. Ison, president of the 97,000 member Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, today said Kentucky's tobacco farmers will fight to prevent legislative approval of a proposed four-cent per pack tax increase on cigarettes designed to finance additional teacher salary increases.

"Tobacco farmers have enough problems without being burdened by increased taxes on cigarettes," Ison said, "and they don't intend to stand idly by when their very livelihood is threatened."

Ison said tobacco farmers have suffered from the emotional anti-smoking campaigns and recently were told they must take a ten percent cut in their tobacco allotments in 1970. He said the imposition of a four-cent increase in cigarette taxes would only serve to compound the present problems being experienced by the farmers, and would be another cruel blow to Kentucky's major industry. "Because of the hysterical anti-smoking campaigns, it seems that tobacco has become a whipping-boy for those who aren't familiar with its overriding importance to the total economy of this state and its farmers," Ison commented. "We have fought the anti-smoking propaganda, which we think is false and malicious, and we intend to draw the line and make an unequivocal stand against our state kicking its number one product while it's down by singling it out for increased taxes," he added.
